

Unlimited Travel Passes

Effective for Passes sold from 1 April 2012 to 31 March 2013

Rail Australia offers a range of travel passes that allow three and six months unlimited travel across Australia. You can now choose a pass that best covers the destinations you plan to explore while travelling in Australia.

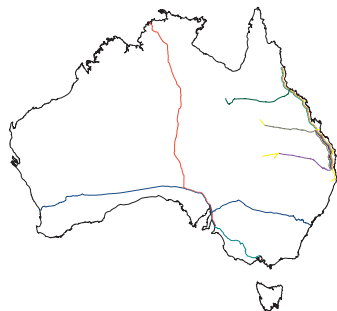

There are seven rail passes to choose from. The maps next to each of the rail passes highlights the places that the rail pass can take you. All passes cover travel in an economy seat/red day/nighter seat. Upgrades to a higher level of travel are available on payment of the additional charges.

How to book a sector

We recommend that you book your rail journeys in advance. Refer to the rail pass descriptions to see which trains can be used on your pass. See the Rail Australia Alliance section for details on the rail company that operates each train service. To book a journey simply:

1. Ring the company which operates the services you would like to travel on. The numbers are listed below.
2. Advise them of the travel date and your rail pass voucher number.
3. On your first journey please exchange your voucher for a rail pass document, you will be required to show your international passport with current address.
4. Your first journey needs to be booked within six (6) months from the date that you purchased the rail pass. The rail pass is then valid for either three (3) or six (6) months (depending on what rail pass you purchased) from the date of your first journey on the train.
5. On boarding the train you may be asked to show your photo identification.
